Want to get involved?

We welcome any budding 'Benedicts' or 'Judis' - or in fact anyone who just wants to 'have a go' on stage, don't worry if the limelight isn't your thing as there are many other ways to get involved. Each production needs a lot of input, like set-design, set- building, sound and lighting, stage management, props, wardrobe make-up or front-of house - anyone who wants to be involved, can be!

To get involved, please contact alastair.dewar@cgi.com

About "Mammals"

Jane and Kev don't have secrets, they don't have enough room in the house for them. When Kev suddenly comes home from a business trip with something on his mind, he starts a confessional chain reaction, despite a house full of dirty laundry, over-excited children (played by adults) and the early arrival of weekend guests who bring their own "baggage".

Written by Amelia Bullmore (well known as DCI Murray in ITV's Scott & Bailey) Mammals is a brilliant, bitterly comic glimpse of the breeding generation.

For anyone who's in, has ever been in, or will ever be in a family.
